

THINKING ABOUT REPLACING YOUR APPLIANCE?

If your home is already connected to gas, here's what to consider.

If you currently use gas to power any of your home appliances, replacing like-for-like is often the simplest option. It usually means:

- No major changes to your home
- A more straightforward installation
- Reliable everyday use

Switching from gas to electric can involve additional upgrades, depending on your setup.

Gas is also evolving, with renewable gas emerging as an energy solution that could support Australia's transition to net zero as a key part of the future energy mix.
